

Private Bathroom

Epse

The residents of a bungalow in Epse, who were retiring after many years spent abroad, asked Dirkjan Broekhuizen to redecorate their bathroom in a “spacious, simple in a practical way and warm” style. The walls are dominated by mauve, since bed sheets and towels were already present in this favorite color that is also found in other rooms of the residence. In addition to specially designed closets and towel holders, the bathroom features a large dual washstand and a free-standing tub, as well as a large easily accessible shower with two fixed shower heads and a handheld shower handle. The wall, which is covered in 60x60 cm tiles, includes a storage rack, while a glass panel with the word “WET” has taken the place of the former connecting door to the hallway.

- ↖ | Bathtub, Starck edition Hoesch
- ↑ | Washbasin, Marike/Jeurissen
- ↗ | Window sill, Silestone
- | Floor plan
- | Floor tiles, Mosa/Schans Veenendaal

↑ | Faucets, Vola

↑ | Interior view, view of the forest

↓ | Bathtub, Casandra by Villeroy & Boch

Private Bathroom

Velp

It was the wish of the residents of the villa at the edge of the forest near the city of Velp to be able to look into their garden from the bathroom. Broekhuizen, working in close cooperation with the owner, allowed the quiet atmosphere and the wish for simplicity to guide him. The 12.5 m² bathroom is dominated by the expansive glass front. The eye catcher is the u-shaped installation made of Silestone, into which the bathtub has been integrated. The towel holders and fitted closets were designed especially for this bathroom. To allow the view of nature, the bathtub is positioned on a wooden pedestal that almost seems to make it float. Only the walls of the shower are covered in tiles. The second bathroom of the residence for the children sized 6 m², was accentuated by the color green which is reminiscent of the green of nature.

↑ | Washbasin, stainless steel, by Alape
 ↓ | Floor plan

← | Exterior view, pond
 ↓ | Shower, Raindance by Hans Grohe

